Juneteenth at UC San Diego Park & Market: A Celebration of Black Art, Music, and Community

To honor Juneteenth as an important part of American History, please join us at UC San Diego Park & Market for an afternoon and evening of special activities, featuring a black-owned business market, panel discussion exploring “What does liberation mean in the 21st Century?”, and live music throughout the day. The festivities conclude with a Neo Soul Performance by some of San Diego’s best musicians. This free event is open to the public and includes complimentary food and beverages.

This celebratory event was made possible by support from the County of San Diego Black Chamber of Commerce, and our Community Partners Courtney Dade, Terrell Thompson, and Blake Dye.
