US Women's National Team vs. Colombia

The U.S. Women's National Team will play a friendly match against Colombia on October 29 at Snapdragon Stadium in San Diego, presented by AT&T.

Colombia is coming off a stellar performance at the 2023 FIFA Women's World Cup where it won Group H on the heels of a monumental result against Germany, beating the two-time Women's World Cup champions, 2-1, on a late header goal from Manuela Vanegas. Colombia then beat Jamaica, 1-0, to win its first-ever knockout match at a Women's World Cup before falling to Women's World Cup runners-up England, 2-1, in the quarterfinal.

Like the USA, Colombia has already qualified for the 2024 Summer Olympics in France and both teams will be using this game as early preparation for that tournament. Of the 12 teams participating in the Olympic Women's Soccer Tournament, just four have qualified thus far: host France, the USA, Brazil and Colombia.
